Homecoming . . . Wet But Wonderful

Rains Fail to Daunt Spirit

The traditional homecoming monsoons failed to dampen the spirits of Puma football fans and Puma alumni as Puma grid men rolled over Butler's Bulldogs 6-0 on Homecoming Saturday afternoon.

All through the week students had worked hard preparing hall and dance decorations for the approaching week-end and returning alumni.

Friday afternoon a few alumni began arriving. Friday night a big pep rally was held. St. Joe seniors presented a skit, the juniors presented a huge bonfire and the newly acquired puma mascot presented a loud clear growl into the microphone. Seniors and alumni then moved to the rec hall for the Friday night decorations dance.

Then came the monsoons. It had sprinkled intermittently during the pep rally, but by 11:00 p.m. the rain was pouring steadily. And it continued almost unceasingly till 7 p.m. Saturday.

Homecoming Saturday morning, like homecoming Saturday mornings for the past four years, was devoted to decoration repair. The rains had taken and were still taking their toll. But soggy Puma students made things right for the alumni judges' early afternoon rounds.

During the morning the seniors' dates were supplied with white mums and throughout the day judges observed and deliberated as to which of the flower bearing beauties would be picked as Homecoming Queen.

Shortly before 2 a.m. the crowd began to gather for the game. The rain had not ceased. But neither had the spirits of St. Joe alumni and students. The main bleachers were filled and stayed that way throughout the game. Then cheering fans swarmed the field and

Pumaville Gets Live Puma for Football Mascot

Well, you won't believe it, but St. Joseph's has outclassed the United States Military and Naval academies combined. Army has its mule and Navy has its goat, but the Pumas now have a real live puma.

Fulfilling a campaign promise made last May, to provide a symbol for St. Joe spirit, Joe Daleiden, treasurer of the junior class, took over caretaking duties several weeks ago for a three-month-old puma cub. The cub is being rented from the Clifty Acres game farm in Madison, Ind.

In his campaign to get "a puma for the Pumas" Daleiden was assisted by Pierce McCabe and Pat Murphy, president of the junior class. Their efforts and $150 rental money from the student council have procured for the college the 20-pound puma cub.

McElroy, '43 Named V.I.P.

Edward F. McElroy '43, of Chicago was among 24 persons honored last month by the Illinois Club for Catholic Women at the ninth annual V.I.P. Show of the Year in the Arie Crown theatre in McCormick Place.

McElroy who was selected because of his position as president of the Illinois Catholic War Veterans, an organization active with underprivileged children and veterans, is special events director of radio station WJJD in Chicago. During World War II he served in the Air Corps.

J-O-E Group Meets Oct. 17 in Evansville

The J-O-E (Jasper-Owensboro-Evansville) Chapter of the Alumni Association met for the second time this year on October 17 at the Don Blume residence in Evansville.

The proceedings included an election of officers and Dr. Tom Vonderhaar, M.D. was chosen President of the Chapter. John Eckstein of Jasper was elected Vice-president, William Hoffman of Jasper Secretary and Jerry Altstadt of Evansville Treasurer.

The above replaced Urban Pfeffer of Jasper as President, Cletus Flittner of Evansville as Vice-president, Dr. Tom Burger of Evansville as Secretary and Ed Schultheis of Jasper as Treasurer.

A total of 22 persons attended the meeting including guests Ken Coudret, football coach of Rex Mundi Catholic High School, and Father Norman Heckman, Jerry Gladu and Dave Beam from campus. The latter is the St. Joe Freshman Football coach.

The meeting, designated as the Annual J-O-E Stag, was held in the rec room of the Don Blume residence and during the course of the evening fried chicken, potato salad, baked beans and beer was served. Films were also shown of three of the Varsity football games from the earlier part of the 1962 season.

Jerry Gladu, the Director of Alumni Affairs, took several of the Glee Club LP records and some St. Joe car plates and made them available to the interested Chapter members.

The campus delegation flew down to Evansville for the meeting while the various other groups drove. Reports have it that the Jasper contingent suffered a slight refueling delay in Daylight, Indiana, but after a dozen drinks or so were able to continue their trip.

Other alumni attending the party-meeting-party-party included: Elbert Walker, Tom Burger, Bernie Hoffman, Bill Krode, Fred Hollindan, Mauri Gutgsel, Jerry Apple, Dr. Bud Greuf and Chas. Browning and Jim Taylor.

Many favorable comments were given regarding the success of the "Stag" and the generous hospitality of the Don Blumes. (Picture on Page four).

Fort Wayne Chapter Meets

The Fort Wayne Chapter of the St. Joseph's Alumni Association met at the Old Crown Brewery's Hospitality Room on October 23 for purposes of ratifying the recently written constitution.

Through the efforts of Paul Steigmeyer, Don Klingenger, Bill Andorfer and Bob Christen the constitution, as established for the newly formed Ft. Wayne Chapter, was completed and approved at the meeting.

Plans were also made for a meeting to be held on the 29th of November. The agenda of the planned meeting will include the election of officers.

The meeting-party at Old Crown was set up by Bill Andorfer and 17 members were present.

Joe Albers, '50, Elected Alumni Board President

It was a rainy day in Rensselaer, but the weather certainly didn't dampen the spirits of the returning alumni or, as you can see from the picture at right, the Alumni Board of Directors.

Elected at the annual Homecoming meeting were: Joe Albers, Cincinnati, new president; Jack McCann, Indianapolis, 1st Vice-President; and Joe Moore, St. Louis, 2nd Vice-President. In attendance at the meeting were directors Bob Conley, Past President, Joe McGrath, Gerry LaFontain, George Byerwalter, David Kramer, Marty Knapp, Past President Jim Stang, Bob Gaynor and Fr. Lefko.

The Homecoming meeting was opened by Joe McGrath who gave a short report about the '62 Homecoming. His report was followed by Fr. Lefko who gave a brief resume of the progress of the Diamond Jubilee Capital Gifts Campaign. He reported an overall figure of $239,800 collected so far in cash, and pledges of $185,000 came from Fellows of the college, $50,800 from the Rensselaer area and $64,000 from alumni. 38 of the 172 Fellows of Saint Joseph's College are alumni. Although the alumni who have participated in the drive have been extremely generous, the number of alumni participating has been quite small with only 4 per cent pledged so far.

We Hear From

Dear Jerry:

Happy to hear of your appointment at our Alma Mater and wish you every success in your endeavors.

You might be interested in the following information for your Alumni Quickies: In addition to my regular position on the Theatre Staff at Alverno College in Milwaukee, this August I was elected for a two year term as national Secretary for the American Community Theatre Association, one of the three divisions of the American Educational Theatre Association. I also was appointed Community Theatre Editor of the Educational Theatre Journal, a quarterly publication sponsored by the American Educational Theatre Association.

I will not be able to make Homecoming this year because of rehearsals for my next production, but I will plan my schedule for next year to allow free time, for it will be my ten year anniversary of graduation. Time does fly.

Best regards,

Joseph Denis Konkel '53
5606 Bramble Court
Greendale, Wisconsin.

Dear Alumni Director:

It was swell to see you remembering us servicemen in the Alumni news. Somehow it meant a lot to me, and I hope I'll be able to do things for old Pumaville like the college did for me. Keep up the fine work.

Tom Adler '61.

Dear Sirs:

As of October 4th, 1962 I changed my residence from Italy to Germany. Even as an alumnus of St. Joe of almost pioneer times, I would still like to keep some "Contact" with my Alma Mater. In case you are still willing to continue sending me "Contact", I am inclosing my new address.

Thanks in advance and best wishes.

In Xsto,

Vincent M. Oberhauser, c.p.

Editor's note: The following letter was written to the editor of STUFF in regard to the STUFF silver anniversary edition which, because of its many interesting old-time features, was sent to all alumni through the alumni office.

Dear Editor:

I certainly enjoyed reminiscing through the silver anniversary edition of STUFF. I do call your attention to an error because it was the class of 1949 which donated the World War II Memorial plaque. This was a personal project which I sold my classmates on. It was dedicated June 12, 1949.

I can't help noticing the many articles in the issue which appeared during my time at St. Joe, 1945-49. Our group, largely World War II veterans, was very proud of our school and appreciated the privilege and opportunity that allowed us to attend there. Among today's alumni our group still stands out in their appreciation and interest.

Sincerely,

Bernard E. Ingersoll.

'Stuff' Columnist Analyzes Homecoming

Editor's note: The following article was printed in STUFF on the Thursday before Homecoming weekend.

by Frank Creel

This weekend you might hear the melody of Dvorak's New World Symphony prancing through the tree limbs and reverberating from these figurative halls of ivy on the campus of St. Joseph's College, Rensselaer, Ind. For the sons of St. Joe, or at least those sons who have graduated recently enough or with sufficient nostalgia to succumb to that pristine urge to revert — those sons will come home, home from that world, that life, whose strange hostility it is yet our destiny to experience.

What brings them? And what is it that will someday bring some of us back? Is there anything beyond the obvious reasons? Do they return to their alma mater merely because the mixed drinks are cheaper at the dance than they are at the neighborhood lounge, or merely because Homecoming gives them an opportunity to get away from the grind which in its slow but unalterable way must transform the rough stone of youth into the mellow, fashionable clay of old age?

They will come with their wives, their fiancées, or in the cases of some remaining few, with simply their favorite girls, and they'll stop on the sidewalk, as they would a long-lost buddy, some professor who may have been the most inveterate index-destroyer of their academic careers and amiably swap stories, to the amused benefit of their wives, fiancées, or Honeycombs, of events which were perhaps unbearable gall in the occurrence, but are priceless memories in the recounting. And they will stroll out to the Y of the center drive and look at the million dollar brick skelton of Halleck Center — it was here, they might recall, that the college dairy barn was once situated.

Some of them who knew Ed Labbe will be greeted by his younger brother, and if they also knew Al Hanley and Dennis Mudd they will conclude that there has been a minor revolution in the political thinking of the modern St. Joe student, or that Father Hesburgh's campaign for a rebalancing of values has at last borne fruit on one of Notre Dame's little brother campuses.

These alumni will come and do some of these things and some other things and, we may be reasonably assured, enjoy doing them; and we welcome their arrival. But the reasons that motivate their return will remain one of these simple little mysteries which are not worth the trouble to attempt fathoming. For anyone who places great store in the psychological insights contained in the study of word evolution, there would be a simple explanation: alma mater means "nursing mother," and if you can explain why a weaned child continues to suck his thumb you can explain why an alumnus returns to visit his alma mater.

But this smacks of sophistry, and those of us who might, as an undergraduate, accept such facile logic would in all likelihood reject it as an alumnus returning for Homecoming. There is a time to study and a time to graduate. And there is a time for those who are settling into the mellowness of maturity to come home — and see what they really looked like as a stone in the rough. That's all.

Indianapolis 'Star' Columnist Lauds St. Joe-Butler Victory

from Monday Quarterbacks by John Bansch

A bad bounce of the football, a missed signal somewhere along the way or any number of other things often bring about the end of a long gridiron unbeaten streak. But, that wasn't the case Saturday as St. Joseph's snapped Butler's 19-game string.

Not once in the 6-0 struggle was there an event which could put the "fluke" label on the outcome. It was simply a case of St. Joe having the better football team that day and if they played 100 times the Pumas would win their share of games.

Coach Ed Dwyer, in his second year at the helm of the northern Indiana school, has done a remarkable job in bringing the Pumas back to the stature they had in the '50's. It's a young squad, but loaded with talent. Dwyer admits he's ahead of schedule in his rebuilding job, so look out the next couple of years when most of this year's team reaches maturity.

Dwyer had confidence his boys could do the job. So much in fact, he elected to kick off after winning the toss and Butler was in the hole right from the start and never really got out. Then, in the second period on fourth and five from St. Joe's 48, Dwyer gambled and went for the first down. His boys didn't make it, but Butler lost the ball on a fumble a few plays later.

Butler doesn't have the team it has had in recent years and a defeat was bound to come somewhere along the line. The Bulldogs still have a good shot at the Indiana Collegiate Conference crown. The race is so muddled that just about every team in the circuit with the exception of Evansville can come home the victor.

Alumni Board . . .

Joe Moore, director and newly elected Vice President from the St. Louis chapter, reported next that his area had come through with a 71 per cent participation in the drive. The Board agreed that this was one of the most encouraging reports they had heard in months.

Moore also announced that Mike Stoehr is the new President of the St. Louis Chapter and Al Prosser is the new Secretary. Following Joe Moore was Joe McGrath who thanked the board for their help while he was President. Joe Albers then spoke to the board and indicated that the progress made during the last two years was very evident and that many firsts were put into effect. President Albers went on to stress that he believed that any job worth undertaking is a job worth completing, that he had very definite objectives in mind and that if at any time he found that he was being placed in a compromising position by the circumstances, he would promptly resign in the best interests of all.

It was considered by President Albers and the Board that area representation of all chapters on the board should be implemented immediately.

As the meeting was drawing to a close, past accomplishments of the alumni association were compared to what can be done in the future if, hard work, a dedicated spirit to Saint Joseph's, and the ability to come back with renewed enthusiasm after bitter disappointments is the by-word for the Alumni Board, the college, and the loyal alumni of Saint Joseph's College, Rensselaer, Indiana.

carried the Puma mentor Ed Dwyer off the field.

A rally was held in the field-house immediately after the game. Speeches, congratulations and awards were made. Dwyer credited the fans for their spirit and stated that the victory was the result of "team effort." Jim Biernat was awarded the Rudy Volz alumni trophy by Mrs. Betty Volz.

The decorations awards were made. Gallagher hall's massive automat took first place in the hall division. Noll's animated hunting display took second and Drexel's dice game was third. In the club division the Society for the Advancement of Management took first place. The Lake County club took second for their work on the campus main entrance and the Columbian Players' puma was awarded third.

Then Joyce Kroeger, date of Puma back Dennis Houlihan, was named Homecoming queen and crowned with appropriate ceremony.

After the rally seniors and alumni moved to the rear of the field-house for a cocktail party and then to the Rec hall for a buffet supper.

The homecoming dance began at 12:30. Tables and refreshments were supplied in the Rec hall. Dancing and music by the College Clubman's band were supplied in the fieldhouse and the two buildings were connected by a much-needed canopy, as occasional showers came all during the evening. The dance ended at 2 a.m. and some 500 alumni went away tired but happy.

Dwyer Recalls Experiences Credits Students for Support

Puma head football coach, Ed Dwyer, has had much experience as a football player in high school, college and the army.

Born in 1932 in Camden, New Jersey, the thirty-one year old coach spent most of his early life traveling around the country with his father, who was in the Navy.

For high school he chose Howe high school of Indianapolis, where he lettered in football, basketball, track and cross-country. He was an all-city and all-state end in football, and made the all-sectional basketball team. He entered Purdue university in the summer of 1951, where he was defensive end in 1951, a member of the freshman basketball team, and an offensive end on the Boilermakers' 1952 Big Ten co-championship club. He transferred to Butler university in 1953 and worked as supervisor of athletics for the public park department for nine months.

He entered the Army in the fall of 1953, a few months after his marriage. In the service, Coach Dwyer admits that he "ate himself out of the end position," so he was a tackle on the 1954 Fort Sill National Service championship football team.

He re-entered Purdue in the fall of 1955, but because of his transfer to Butler he was ineligible to play football that year. In 1956-57 he played tackle for the Boilermakers, and scored a touchdown in one game. "It was our end who did all the work. He rushed the passer and blocked the pass into the air. I happened to be at the right place at the right time, caught the ball and took off." Dwyer says his greatest thrill in college football was in 1957, when Purdue, who hadn't won a game all year, defeated top-ranked, previously undefeated Michigan State.

He received his B.S. degree in Physical Education in 1958, then served a year as assistant varsity football coach before graduating in August, 1959, with an M.S. in physical education.

Dwyer, the father of three sons, came to St. Joseph's in the fall of 1959 as assistant football coach, track coach, and wrestling and tennis coach. He was also intramural director in 1960-61.

He was appointed head football coach in 1961, and, after a disappointing first year, has his team in the thick of the Indiana Collegiate conference race. Coach Dwyer says this is because, "this year's team plays as a team. We've worked them hard, but there has never been any griping."

He gives the student body credit for the team's success, too. "I've been in football a long time, but I have never seen school spirit like it is here at St. Joseph's this year. Coach Holstein and I have been talking about it at night. The pep rallies aren't the main thing, it's what goes on during the week that lets the team know everyone is behind them."
